'Good morning Cynthia. Your husband has asked you to see us due to a change in something, but he was reluctant to say what?'

'Begetting'

'Begetting?'

'Begetting'

'In what way?'

'I am a devout Christian, as is my husband, and we were taught that to have children we have to beget'

'Ok'

'But due to an illness my husband has, we have never begetted'

'Not had children?'

'No. Nor begetted'

'Not ever begetted? Not with other men before your husband?'

'No, the Lord expressly forbids that'

'And how old are you?'

'Forty-eight'

'Ok, so what has changed?'

'The other night I went to Doris's where she was having, I thought, a Tupperware Party. Anyway, it wasn't Tupperware; they were selling what appeared to be impractical, draughty underwear, which I didn't buy, and then later Doris started showing a video. Well...you have no idea. There was a naked woman there with three, yes three, naked men. And they were, they were....you knoweverywhere..... It was, it was.....'

'It's ok, it's ok, you're safe now. So, your loving husband, emulating the compassion that Christ has for his flock, has sent you here to talk through those traumatic moments that have collided head on with your religion?'

'Hell no. He sent me here because I told him I have a burning feeling in my pants that I want to be an atheist'

'Ahh Dominic, the Agency that hires you has asked you to visit as you may be straying from what they thought you were offering'
'You have to move with the times'
'I believe you are a storyteller and verse artist?'
'Artiste'
'And you go to the homes of children, perhaps on their birthday and tell them stories or rhymes based on what their parents request?'
'Yes'
'But your style is changing?'
'Not really changing, it evolves to take into account the changing world, its mores, its needs and wants'
'In what way?'
'Well it's no good just doing a rhyme. Where is the opportunity to explore yourself? To go inwards, dig deep, look at yourself as though through a prism? For example....'
'It was on the good ship Venus
You really should have seen us
The figurehead was a woman in bed''
'Err....'
'Eating salted peanuts.' You see? The mothers and fathers see that they have been tested. Their intellect, their auto responses, their programming; they learn about themselves. The children just hear a funny rhyme. It pushes boundaries'
'The Agency told me about another one you do. Is it 'Mary'?'
'Ahh Mary. That is good for starting a debate about liberalism, inclusiveness, sharing, mutual and experiential reaching out.....'
Mary had a little lamb
She also had a bear
I've never seen her little lamb
But I have fucked her mother
Good eh? You see now how one is drawn in to the existential, yet humanistic counterpoint between.....'

'Ok, let's look at a recent Mori Poll that showed the public felt that Council Leaders were paid far too much money and you agreed with that'

'You have misread what the Poll said. It said Council Leaders earned far too much money and I agreed'

'Yes, it will get me out. My teddy bear is getting irritable and Sky are threatening to cut me off if I don't stop ringing their Customer Support'

'Is your Sky faulty?'

'No, I just like ringing Customer Support. I can't afford Spotify and their Hold music is quite good.....'

Anyhow I looked at Fantasy Story Writing, but then I remembered when Doris tells me her fantasy about the men and the pool table, I get really worked up in case they rip the cloth. I also signed up for Your First Trimester which says I should know by week five or six...'

'No?'
'I just play five days a week socially'

'And then at weekends there are Club competitions'

'Yes, but only five are social. See, that's where the mistake is made'
'Ok, she told me about a game recently at a Course near the flooded Severn?'
'That was a nuisance, but we had arranged it, and we didn't want to cancel it, so we just thought take some good wet weather gear and it'll be ok'
'And was it?'
'It was fine. The wet suits hampered a little, but the jet skis kept the clubs dry. We sailed round'

'Ok, let's try a couple of questions. What do you do for a living?'

'I'm a Golf Pro. A very good one'

'So, you compete on the European Tour?'

'Not exactly'

'What do you do?'

'I analyse the statistics daily, looking for pointers that could help the golfers'

'And where are these statistics?'

'In the mumble'

'So, in The Sun newspaper. You read the golf results in The Sun'

'And where do you read the newspaper?'

'In the mumble'

'In the Pro Shop.....That you manage'

'No, I don't! The shop is just my base. I am a golf pro!'

'Who manages a shop?'

'Not at all. The Assistant does that. I look after the members. I decided not to pursue a career making millions on the respective Tours, although I am easily good enough, preferring to help Club golfers to sign into competitions properly, tell them today's date, pick out shirts, fit shoes, fit gloves, give advice on golf clubs and balls which they then buy on line. Indeed, anything that helps those less talented than me.....'

'By running a shop...'

'No! I keep telling you, I'm a Golf Pro! I have a bag with my name on it. Toby, it says, Golf Pro. And my car says, Toby, Golf Pro. And I am registered with the R & A. I am, I am.'

'Ok, let's assume you could go on the Tour in three months' time. How would you get ready for that?'

'Good morning. The others in your team are not sure you're sending the right message'

'Ballroom Dancing'
'It's usually Death but please go on; Ballroom Dancing?'

'Yes'
'How does that compare to Pestilence, War and Famine? How are you going to bring the world to an end with Ballroom Dancing?'
'Have you ever been Ballroom Dancing?'
'No'
'Well women love those touchy, feely sensual men. They can't resist them. The touching bodies, the sensual moves, the lifts under the crotch. It's just instant wet knickers time. They fall in love with them in a moment. So, no interest in their Neanderthal men at home anymore, they want a ballroom dancer'
'So...?'
'So that's it, end of world'
'Why?'
'They're all gay.'
'I still don't get it...?'
'It's easy. The women fall in love with their dance partners and refuse to have sex with their moronic, antediluvian men at home. Their gay dance partners, with the thrusting hips, go home to their gay partners or reach out to Grindr. No more reproduction, end of race. QED'

'Good morning Dennis. The Management at your tv News Channel have sent you here as they are concerned that how you are reporting is hitting viewing figures'
'I can't see it but...'
'Ok, let's take a recent event. They sent you to report on the Pamplona Bull Run where up to ten bulls are let loose on a sectioned off course of streets and the more brave or mental of the crowd run in front. How did you report it?'
'This year's Pamplona Bull Run was exciting with the runners running for their lives ahead of the bulls. The runners managed to keep ahead of the bulls and there were no injuries to the runners or crowd'
'Now, I think they asked you to change it a little?'
'A little'
'Perhaps you could read their commentary?'
'This year's Pamplona Bull Run was the epitome of man versus brute strength. Within minutes a runner fell and was trampled by the first bull and then gored by another, suffering extensive internal injuries. Almost immediately another runner, gasping for breath, was caught by the bulls and thrown through the air by needle sharp horns into the crowd, breaking the back of an onlooker who had to be taken to hospital. Halfway round, a fence holding back the crowd broke and a bull charged into the crowd, goring and trampling all before it. Only several shots from Policia Nacional guns brought the carnage to a halt, although it took several ambulances to take care of the injured..... etc etc.'
'Can you see the difference?'
'Yes. Mine is a true representation and theirs are lies'
'Perhaps you could look at this a little differently? See News Channels as not so much reporters of news as something to lock viewers into early on in their viewing. They are like a starter. The better the starter the more you look forward to the main course'

'What have you learned?'

'I think the two most formative things I have learned are....'

'Yes?'

'I can now sing falsetto'

'And the other...?'

'I now know what it's like to have a loaded weapon in your mouth'

'A gun in your mouth?'

'Not exactly.....'

'Ahh Pol Pot. You are obviously infamous as the Leader of the Khmer Rouge in the late seventies when you were responsible for the killing of, it is estimated, up to three million Cambodians in the episode known as the 'killing fields'
'I don't think that's very fair and it does me a disservice'
'Why?'
'I think it was nearer four...'

'Ah come in Chief Constable. The Home Secretary has asked you to come here as he is not sure that your thinking works in the current climate'.
'He's new, he will come around to our way of thinking. When votes depend on it'
'In what way does the thinking differ?'
'It's quite easy to explain. Let's say you dropped your pen...'
'Ok'
'If you don't pick it up has it been dropped?'
'Of course'
'Why? If you don't pick it up that would suggest it wasn't dropped. It could have been thrown away, it could be a new ornament on the floor, it could be for the dog to play with'.
'.....ok. But what has that got to do with the Home Secretary?'
'If you are mugged but you don't report it, have you been mugged? Use the pen as an example...'
'So, it could be someone taking something back that was theirs?'
'Now you're getting it'
'But what if I do report it? Does it exist then?'
'Not if we don't record it.....'
'How so?'
'For a crime to have happened it has to be recorded, otherwise it has only been reported, which has no value'
'So, if it is not recorded it has not taken place? And if it has not taken place the crime figures will be low, and the Home Secretary will be pleased'
'There you go'

'Good morning Home Secretary....'
'Please, call me Priti. I like being called Priti'
'You are here because it is felt that you are starting to alienate certain sections of society with your categorisations.....?'
'Rubbish. We are a totally inclusive society, Boris says so'
'And yet you have defended the police when they classified Extinction Rebellion as an extremist ideology?'
'So true. Bastards!'
'Aren't they just creating a legitimate fuss about climate change?'
'Who cares what it's about. I don't like them and I'm Home Secretary! Have you seen the way they dress? Disgusting. No one should be allowed to demonstrate in clothes like that'
'But if that's the case what about other Groups or people who you find sartorially challenging?'
'They've got it coming. My department is compiling a list of undesirables that need to be sorted out...'
'Such as....?'
'People on benefits that don't dress properly. Common workers that don't dress properly...'
'Common?'
'You know. Those that can hardly tell Christian Louboutin from Manolo Blahnik. We're going to shut down stores that sell track suits that are obviously for drug dealers or just worn by lazy bastards. And tattoo parlours.. uuggghh. And people who wear shorts in public. No, sorry, people who wear shorts anywhere, unless it's luxury yachts. Oh, I nearly forgot, we're starting mandatory parenting classes to help with formative skills.'
'Such as...?'
'Hairstyling, colour matching, makeup, body awareness, proper fitting bras,....in fact that reminds me, I have to send inspectors into M&S....where was I?.... oh yes...then there's...'
'What about men? Will they have lessons too...?'
'No. Men are to sartorial elegance what the Titanic was to cruising. I'm sending them to special camps. Let the bastards suffer for what women have to look at day in, day out'

'Rosa Parks. Can I say it's an honour to meet you.'

'Thank you.'

'Rosa, I do apologise but I don't know why you are here. You are not on my list'

'I am here because I am not on your list'

'Why should you be on my list?'

'I am not talking about me. I, me, is us. I am talking about us. Us, whitey, us'

'Us?'

'Black people. Where are the black people on your list? Why don't we figure? I think this is a segregation issue all over again'

'Rosa it didn't occur to me that the list was nearly all white. We did have President Mwangagwa of Zimbabwe'

'A backwater. No, you're a colour-blind whitey. All this bullshit about helping people with this 'Just a little longer' crap and you ignore vast swathes of society. Vast swathes of people on this earth and just because we're black. We're going to boycott you Whitey, yes we're coming for you'

'I'm sorry, it wasn't intentional.'

'Wasn't intentional? Wasn't intentional? Don't you think we've had brothers and sisters who ruled mighty nations benevolently, that have Nobel prizes, that have advanced science immeasurably, that have changed the world. Look what happened to South Africa when our beloved Nelson became President in 1994.....'

'Ahh Snow White, it's nice to meet you'
'Have you paid?'
'That brings us quite quickly to why Disney asked you to come here'
'Exploiting bastards'
'It seems you have begun making films of your own'
'I have. I am a modern woman. Women now have power, have confidence, and will not be beholden to, or exploited by, men'
'Quite. I believe Disney feel that the films you are making do not enhance the Disney image'
'My films challenge the stereotype of the Disney image, where Snow White et al are exploited, yes exploited, just to create profits for Disney'
'I believe you teamed up with a foreign company, XXX.com, who finance, write, and direct the films?'
'Yes, but I have artistic control'
'Of course. I think the first film is about to be released?'
'Yes, we named it after our sponsor 'Seven Up'. In it we set a world record for the most....'

'Mr Southgate how are you feeling? They were quite worried about you, they thought you were delirious...?'

No, although I am still a bit dizzy from the excitement. I was going through, in my head, when we bring back the World Cup in 2022 from Qatar. I can see it now. The cheering crowds, the adulation, the open bus through every city in England, the huge financial offers to manage the biggest clubs in the world and then, with Alison nearby.....Arise Lord Southgate of England.....'

‘Good morning St Francis. Your fellow Saints have asked you to drop in due to a, what can we say, change in you.....?’
‘It’s a minor thing, perhaps a passing phase, a subtle ripple in the passage of time’
‘Perhaps we could recap so far. You came from a wealthy, privileged background as the son of a cloth merchant, which you gave up to lead a life of poverty. You went on to establish the Franciscan Order of Friars and the women’s Order of the Poor. You are known for your love, simplicity and practice of poverty to help others, including lepers. It is a wonderful, uplifting story of self-sacrifice and the offering of hope to others’
‘Thank you’
‘But now.....?’
‘Well.....’
‘Well?’
‘Well.....if you go to the sharp edges of humanity, where the unloved and unwanted are, you will find the lepers. Nature has been cruel to them, society cast them out, but....’
‘But?’
‘They really are god awful. They stink, they ooze, bits drop off. I mean, come on. And the poor. For christ’s sake, what a pain in the arse they are. Want, want, want, want...’
‘So, you are concerned that your attitude towards the suffering and the poor is changing?’
‘It’s not just that’
‘What else?’
‘When you grow up being pious you miss things. Obvious things that stare you in the face, but you don’t see them until a light shines onto them and then it is like being reborn, such is its impact’
‘Like what’
‘I’ll give you an example. A young lady came to us recently who was abandoned, alone, homeless and starving. As her pleading eyes stared at me and her weak, trembling hands reached for the bowl of hot, nourishing food, I found myself thinking; wow, what a lovely pair of tits; I could fuck her

'Good morning. Gosh you look exhausted.'

'I'm not too good'

'You've been struggling for a while now'

'I know'

'What's the problem? You still stuck?'

'I am, I just haven't got it anymore. As you know, I started well, with quite a bang really, although no one heard it, and then I motored. I was quite the creative one. Created this, created that, breathed a bit of life into this, a bit into that but since then I've sort of run out of steam'

'It's not easy...'

'I know, but I had such high hopes'

'What are you going to do?'

'I don't know. I mean I used to be good, more than good, omnipotent really, but now look at me. I'm a disaster.'

'That's going a bit far...'

'Is it? I just keep cocking things up. Johann Wolfgang von Goethe said, 'If God had wanted me otherwise, He would have created me otherwise' and yet I give you Trump, Johnson, Putin, Maduro, Morrison; I could go on and on and on..... How is that good? How did I succeed there? By now the world should have evolved into a lovely place, but..... What is going wrong? What am I doing wrong?'

'What do you want to do?'

'I need to lie down'

'Good morning Professor. The Head of Faculty has asked you to join us due to your, as they see it, unconventional data capturing methods and the possibility of inbuilt bias?'

'They just don't understand modern methodology when it comes to acquiring empirical evidence...'

'Ok, let's take your last study. From what I gather you were checking the average body temperature. The 37C benchmark dates from 1851 when Carl Reinhold August Wunderlich, a German physician, took millions of temperature readings from 25,000 patients in Leipzig. Since then anecdotal evidence has also shown that body temperature has fallen but you decided to do an exhaustive study?'

'I did'

'And you measured the temperature of many people?'

'Many, to increase the veracity of the results'

'Of course. Perhaps you could tell me where you conducted your research?'

'Certainly. It was a female study, so we started in lap dancing and pole dancing clubs.'

'And where did you take the readings?'

'We had a limited budget so just between the breasts. But then we asked our Budget Director to join us and he increased our budget substantially, so we started taking the readings up their....'

'Quite'

'Maurice, our Budget Director felt it sexist to just test ladies and so we moved on to men'

'And where did you find them?'

'We weren't quite sure where to look but Maurice said he'd always had good results on Grindr. We did indeed find the men quite enthusiastic about us taking readings up their'

'And you have another study planned?'

'Maurice has given us a large budget for an exhaustive study of African men.....'

'Good morning shepherd boy, the villagers tell me you have not learned your lesson'
'I have'
'What have you learned?'
'Not to cry wolf anymore'
'Good, well done'
'Thank you'
'And in a wider sense, what does that tell us?'
'Not to lie. But more than that, to consider the ramifications of one's actions, not only on one's self but on one's family and the wider community.'
'I'm impressed. I wonder why they sent you here?'
'I looked at it a lot and saw not only emotional issues, like the hurt I caused to my family, but of course I put the lives of my rescuers in peril and I was putting them and their families in peril'
'Very good'
'And then I took it farther to try and understand the economic issues. Some of the rescuers had to leave work to rescue me and that would have cost them money, plus any expense getting to me'
'Excellent. I am so pleased. There is no point you being here so after you've gone, I'll give them a ring and sort out the mistake. More than likely just faulty records. It was good to.....'
'Help, help, help. The man has locked me in his room and he's trying to kill me! Help! Help! Help.....'

'Good morning Mister Wheeler. John, you are here because your method of naming certain astronomical objects or occurrences is a little.....non-scientific?'

'I don't think so'

'Ok, let's look at a term you coined in 1967 that summed up something that Einstein predicted in his 1916 'General Theory of Relativity'.

'Ahh, the Black Hole'

'Yes, indeed. How did you come up with that term?'

'I don't know really; I think it was just intuitive. I was having a god-awful day. There I was dangling over a manhole unblocking a drain, the dog had died, the heating packed up, the wife had come back.... Just one of those days. And I was idly thinking about the General Theory when, for some reason, that term leapt out at me'

'I see, but.....'

'Like the other day, when I'd been on the loo for about an hour after a night's curry and beer, I realised that theoretically there should be a hybrid entity that could sit between a Neutron Star and a Cepheid Variable.'

'Go on'

'Well, for some reason I came up with 'Wet Shitty Smelly Blob' or perhaps a 'Wheeler Reeler'. I'm torn. What do you think...?'

'Just a little longer.....'
